

Discussion:

1. Was there anything inconsistent with the way you carried out your experiment? If so, what was it?

2. What environmental factors besides the color of the surface could affect the sensor readings?

Conclusion:

My hypothesis was supported / not supported by the experiment. How do you know?

What are your next steps? How could you share your knowledge with others?