

Team-based Challenge Presentation Requirements

Creating a slide presentation to present the outcomes of a team-based challenge is a common and effective way to communicate results and insights to your audience. Here are the key topics you should include in your presentation:

1. Title Slide:

- Title of the Presentation
- Team Members' Names
- Date of the Presentation
- Team Name (if applicable)

2. Introduction:

- Briefly introduce the team challenge or project.
- Mention the goals and objectives of the challenge.

3. Team Overview:

- Briefly introduce the team members and their roles.
- Highlight any unique strengths or expertise within the team.

4. Problem Statement:

- Clearly define the problem or challenge your team worked on.
- Explain why it was important or relevant.

5. Methodology:

- Describe the approach or methodology your team used to address the challenge.
- Highlight any tools, techniques, or processes used.

6. Data and Analysis:

- Present any data or findings that support your team's work.
- Use charts, graphs, and visuals to illustrate key points.
- Explain your analysis and insights.

7. Results and Achievements:

- Share the outcomes and achievements of your team's efforts.
- Offer any recommendations or solutions based on your findings.
- Highlight any key metrics or performance indicators.
- Show before-and-after comparisons if applicable.

8. Lessons Learned:

- Discuss the challenges or obstacles your team encountered.
- Share insights gained from overcoming these challenges.

9. Conclusion:

- Summarize the main points of your presentation.
- Reiterate the significance of the team's work.

- Open the floor to questions and discussions from your audience.

10. Acknowledgments:

- Thank your team members, mentors, sponsors, or anyone who contributed to the project's success.

11. References and Citations:

- If you use external sources or data, provide proper citations.

Remember to keep your presentation concise, use visuals effectively, and focus on the most important points. Tailor the content and style to your audience, whether they are team members, peers, mentors, teachers, or a mix of different groups. Practice your presentation to ensure a smooth and engaging delivery.
